Womens' Institute
Elect Officers.

The annual meeting of the Champion Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. D. D. Farmer on Tuesday, Dec. 13. Due to the illness of the President, Mrs. Vaisey, Mrs. H. D. Farries, Second Vice President, occupied the chair.

The Secretary's report showed a paid up membership of 21; money raised, approximately $120. Expenditures included cups for the school sports meet, flowers in cases of sickness or death in the community, expenses of visiting speakers, printing of programmes, delegates' expenses to district and constituency conventions, and all dues, provincial, district and constituency.

Pians were made for the distribution of Christmas Cheer. The new officers for the year will be as follows:

President, Mrs. E. Little; First Vice President, Mrs. R. D. Farries; Second Vice-President, Mrs. D. Watkins; Treasurer, Mrs. E. H. Frazier; Directors, Mrs. Pratt, Mrs. Ulrich and Mrs. Knudsen. The matter of a new secretary was left over till the January meeting. Mrs. Baker agreeing to act in the meantime.

Mrs. Walker introduced the singing of carols with a very pleasing little talk on "Christmas Customs in Other Lands," and the exchange of Christmas gifts brought up the usual exclamations of delight.

A delightful lunch was served by Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Dawson assisted by Mrs. Farmer.

We were extremely glad to welcome Mrs. Alcock again, as a member of our Institute for 1936.

WARNING—A Big Storm is Coming. Dec. 19 20 at Champion Theatre.

Local Sportsman Receives Generous Donation To Help Introduce Chukar Partridge

THE CHUKAR PARTRIDGE

Sportsmen throughout this district have the opportunity to co-operate with funds to assist in establishing this wonderful game bird in this province.

The Chukar, a native of India, lives from sea level to an elevation of ten thousand feet. It will stand our winters, like open country, lies well to a dog, a fast flyer, is prolific, stays pretty well where put down and is a bird about the size of our willow grouse.

Birds that were released last fall and this spring in the province seem to be thriving, as a number of coveys and odd birds each.

The present plan of the Calgary Game Association is to release four hundred birds next March, two hens to each cock bird, in eight lots of fifty birds each. If this is done an open season can be hoped for in the fall of 1943.

The birds cost $6.50 each, and around three thousand dollars is required to put on deposit as a guarantee for accepting the required quota.

Sportsmen in this district can have any number of birds put down here by contributing the required funds which will be matched by the Calgary Game Association dollar for dollar and put the birds down here in some selected place providing that not less than five pairs are put down in one place at the same time.

As a real boost for the local sportsmen, Fred Glover has received this check for $100.00 dollars from George W. P. Heffelfinger of Winnipeg on behalf of his party of hunters who have visited the champion district the last two years. Mr. Heffelfinger says: "I hope that your very worthwhile attempt to start Chukar in the Champion district will prove highly successful, and that we may, from time to time, be to further help."

In a communication from F. Green, chairman of the Propagation Committee Foreign Game Birds, Calgary, he recommends purchasing a quota of twenty hens and ten cocks for liberation in lieu of eggs. 200 eggs would cost $70.00, expenses more than $30.00, and it would be doubtful if you would raise 60 birds, while with 20 hens you would produce approximately 120 birds. Mr. Green states that he has made a deposit on all the birds on breeder has for March shipment and will allot to districts as the money comes in.

Your contributions to assist introduce Chukar in the Champion district will be gratefully received by Geo. Dupuis at the hardware store.

KING GEORGE THE SIXTH

Chapter One.
 "NO MAN CAN BE WISER THAN DESTINY."—Tennyson.

It is an interesting page of history which relates that the late Queen Victoria came to the throne in 1837. It marked the first time that the British monarchy did not carry with it the title of the ruler of Hanover, and when King Edward VII was crowned, there was no longer any connection between the British Royal Family and the continent. He was really the first "British" King since England, Wales, Ireland and a Scotland had only one sovereign who had no continental connection.

There is no doubt that this was not mere coincidence. Queen Victoria had been disappointed with certain events, particularly with marriages which had been planned for definite benefits on the international political scene, but which had turned out to be bad appointments. Her eldest daughter's marriage with the Crown Prince of Prussia did not bring the desired results and there was little happiness to be found in the marriage of Prince Alfred to the daughter of the czar of Russia. It was believed these two marriages would strengthen the bonds of friendship between the three powers whose relations had become strained on account of Russia's activities in India and Persia's ambitions in Europe, but conditions had actually become worse.

Thereafter, Queen Victoria did not favor any Royal matches which were contrived for diplomatic reasons, but when her grandson, George, the Duke of York, who was destined to become King George V, was engaged to a beautiful girl raised in Great Britain under the wise guidance of Princess Mary of Teck, the beloved Queen did not hesitate to offer her immediate approval and sincere blessing to the marriage of a "couple joined in true love and unanimity."

It was a very happy marriage and the couple lived peacefully in the outlined an English Royal Family at White Lodge in Richmond Park. In June of 1891, their first child was born and he was named Prince Edward, who later became King Edward VII and who is today the Duke of Windsor. On December 11, 1895, another son was born to this couple at York Cottage in Southampton, and this news was like a bright ray of sunshine in a dark and gloom atmosphere because it was the thirty-fourth anniversary of the death of the Prince Consort. However, Queen Victoria was consoled when she learned that the new member of the Royal Family would have the name of the Prince Consort and a several days later the infant was christened Albert Frederick Arthur George, who was raised as a second son bearing the name Prince Albert, though he was destined to assume the heavy responsibilities of head of the greatest empire that ever existed in the history of mankind, and who is today known as King George the Sixth.

Dedicated to the worship of God was erected. The Dedication Service was conducted by Dr. Pinkham, first Bishop of Calgary, on the 18th of December, 1910, the Rector and Wardens having previously accepted the offer of Mr. Carman to build residences on the other lots of the subdivision.

Prior to the dedication of the church building, services were held regularly in the School House, the building which in 1915 was being used as a hospital. A flourishing Sunday School was in operation under the able direction of Mr. Sale, assisted by Miss Burt. Her baptism was administered and a marriage was solemnized.

Service in commemoration of the Anniversary of the Dedication of Emmanuel Church, Carmangay, will be conducted by Rev. Canon Winter at 3 p.m. on Sunday, 18th December.
